THE CARE MENU

How we prepare your care.

A plan for your materials

We review surface materials, finish, condition, buildup, prior treatments and safe access before selecting suitable products, equipment and methods. The same approach is not right for every surface. Your quote identifies the approved areas and tasks; assessment does not automatically add restoration or extra work.

Same size, different needs

Imagine two homes of 2,500 square feet each. One is regularly maintained with clear surfaces; the other has older buildup, delicate finishes and restricted access. Their plans may differ. This hypothetical example shows why the final quote considers condition, materials and selected tasks alongside size.

What we mean by trim

Trim means baseboards, door and window casings and other finishing moldings. We identify the selected pieces in your proposal; care is limited to that agreed selection.

Windows and honest results

Only agreed accessible interior glass, sills, frames and blinds are included. Tracks, channels and exterior window work are excluded. Materials and condition limit results; stains or embedded dust may remain. Complete restoration is not promised, and ongoing maintenance is arranged separately.

A prepared, safe home

Clear agreed surfaces, secure valuables and disclose fragile or loose items. We do not move heavy furniture, loaded tables or pet enclosures. Pet waste, litter boxes, cages and pet belongings are not cleaned or handled. Keep pets away; blocked or unsafe work is recorded as not performed.

One clear agreement

No on-site additions or room-for-room swaps. Advance revisions need review and signatures from you and an authorized company representative before changed work. We respect stop-work instructions immediately. Existing accepted agreements remain protected; your signed order governs scope, scheduling, payment and applicable rights.
